Executive Committee Change

Francisco Camacho, Executive Vice President, Essential Dairy and Plant-Based International (EDP International), and a member of Danone's Executive Committee, is leaving Danone on September 3rd to explore new horizons.

The EDP International leadership team will continue to focus on business delivery under the temporary oversight of Chairman and CEO, Emmanuel Faber, while the company reviews its organizational options in the context of a world with Covid.

Emmanuel Faber, Danone Chairman and CEO, said: "We have much to thank Francisco for. In his 20 years with Danone, he has been committed to transforming to a high level of performance our businesses in many countries. I am especially grateful for how he and the EDP leadership team brought the business back to growth in recent years. We all wish Francisco the best in his future endeavours."
